

To make your heart pure you have to stop lying to yourself believe me you will understand if your heart is pure if by lying even to yourself you will be crying you will feel that pain or lying careful to getting the results because you will see what to say before you speak You will see the pain of others go through the result of telling the truth will tell you what wisdom is so never lie to yourself